CORPORATE SOCIAL RESPONSIBILITY CONFERENCE OF GERMAN BUSINESSES IN BANGLADESH

Since independence, Bangladesh's economy has been growing rapidly and steadily, especially during the last few years. The country offers wide opportunities as a producer, and it is also turning into a fast-growing consumer market, becoming an important international commercial and production partner.

Bilateral trade with Germany has enjoyed a double-digit growth in recent years, and remarkably, during the global recession in 2009, German exports to Bangladesh remained steady whilst trade with all other partners slowed down.

Yet whilst the economy and international trade are growing steadily, Bangladesh still faces numerous development challenges. These include low adult literacy rates, high rates of rural and urban poverty, limited provision of services, weak governance, insufficient energy supply and the impacts of climate change.

German businesses acknowledge these challenges and their responsibilities in assisting Bangladesh to address them. It is common knowledge that socially responsible business practices benefit both German businesses and the people of Bangladesh.

This conference provides successful entrepreneurs the opportunity to share best practices and lessons learned and develop business strategies based on:

Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) as a form of voluntary corporate self-regulation integrated into a company's business model.

Social Business* as an innovative and responsible way to target opportunities neglected by traditional business plans, which provides goods and services that comply with social and environmental challenges.

Social business has been developed and promoted in Bangladesh by Nobel Peace Laureate Muhammad Yunus*

Holger Michael

Ambassador of the Federal Republic of Germany

"To integrate social commitment into business strategies is an established tradition in Germany. Also in the external trade and investment sector in Bangladesh, the application of Corporate Social Responsibility and Social Business will foster social peace and help to shape the social and environmental dimensions of globalization. The German Embassy thus wholeheartedly supports this Conference on Social Business. We shall experience how German Companies, by assuming social responsibility, do contribute to the sustainable development of Bangladesh. I am confident that this event will set examples and will help to unleash the positive powers of business for the benefit of the Bangladesh People.

Saiful Islam

*President Bangladesh German
Chamber of Commerce & Industry
(BGCCI)*

Corporate Social Responsibility (CSR) makes a significant contribution towards sustainability and competitiveness.

The European Commission's definition of CSR is: "A concept whereby companies integrate social and environmental concerns in their business operations and in their interaction with their stakeholders on a voluntary basis." CSR is voluntary, your company is based on the economical, social and ecological pillars and finally the society and the company benefits in the long run.
